

Bay subdivision downsized

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Developers have scaled down plans for a subdivision off Dunbar Avenue -- making the residential layout fit the Bay St. Louis zoning code's requirements.

The city's Planning and Zoning Commission will be asked next month to approve a 30-site subdivision between Boardman St. and Melody Lane, four less than a plan the commission nixed at its May meeting.

Also up for action are plans to build a 12-lot subdivision off Dunbar, on a narrow 3.7-acre tract that lies south of Genin St.; a bed and breakfast establishment at 115 Washington St.; and three residential duplexes on Third Street between Citizen and Ballentine.

Original plans for the major new subdivision between Boardman and Melody Lane attracted significant controversy -- citizens and commission members balked at the sub-standard lot sizes that were proposed for inclusion in a 36-lot development.

Dennis Stieffel, representing Lifestyle 2000, then redrew the proposal to a 34-lot plan, saying anything less than that would make the development economically unfeasible. The commission rejected the plans anyway.

As it stands, a 30-lot development will meet all lot size requirements, city officials say, including the regulation calling for 100-foot frontages.

Other items up for commission action include a proposal by Britt Suddeth to subdivide the tract south of Genin Street for 12 residential building sites.

William Adam and Steve Adam are asking for a special exception to the zoning ordinance to allow construction of three residential duplexes on Third Street. The tract at issue is zoned for light industrial use rather than residential development.

The commission also will be asked by Mike V. Zuppardo to approve a bed and breakfast operation at 115 Washington St., a large residence that was recently renovated. If approved, the establishment would be the fourth bed and breakfast allowed by the commission in the city.

The commission meets at 7:30 p.m. July 12, in the City Hall Annex on Court Street.

Airport lays off two

Discussing the future

Hal Walters, Port and Harbor Executive Director (left), and Bill Stovall, Stennis International Airport Director, discuss the facility's future as a Casino Magic charter arrives. The Magic has virtually suspended its charter operation since its primary carrier, Express One, voluntarily shut down in early June pending an FAA investigation. The shutdown is costing Stennis over $30,000 a month in lost revenue. Stovall had to lay off two security personnel in the wake of Express One's closing. ### Effects felt of charter shutdown

BY RICHARD MEEK

The shutdown of Casino Magic's primary charter carrier has resulted in two layoffs at Stennis International Airport.

Airport Director Bill Stovall said two security personnel were laid off in the wake of Express One's voluntary shutdown in early June due to a pending FAA investigation.

Express One, one of the giants in the charter business, was the Magic's principal charter carrier. Express One was flying in approximately 45-60 charters per month. The shutdown is costing Stennis over $30,000 per month in lost revenue, Stovall said.

"It's unfortunate that we had to lay two people off," Stovall said. "I hope there are no more."

Since the downfall of Express One, airport traffic during the week has been at a virtual standstill. Air Nevada has been flying in an average of three weekend flights for the Jubilee Casino, but the planes are smaller, resulting in lower landing fees that Express One was paying.

Stovall said the shutdown has forced the airport to "cut back in all areas," including turning off the terminal air conditioning and "using all of our supplies before we purchase any more."

"In our previous four months, the airport had made a small amount of

Waveland applying for grant to fund repairs

BY RICHARD MEEK

Waveland is applying for federal funds to help in the repair of two sites washed out during the May flood.

Sites at Magnolia Lane and on Central Avenue near the little league baseball park may qualify for federal funding, Waveland Utilities Director Steve Landry said Tuesday.

The cost of the two projects, which will include erosion repair, is $50,000, of which the city would put up 25 percent.

The grant, which would come from the United States Department of Agriculture Natural Resources Conservation office in Jackson, would be channeled through the Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District.

"There's been a good bit of erosion at several sites," Landry said. "I took the officials on a tour of all of the sites, and two may qualify for the grant."

Landry said if the grant is approved, the Soil and Water Conservation District will do all of the work, including the letting of bids.

"(District officials) design it, install it, inspect it," Landry said.

He added that if the grant is not approved, "we will do in-house repair work. But it will not be as elaborate."

John V. Ladner given 20 years

John V. Ladner, 63, was sentenced to two concurrent 20-year sentences in the state penitentiary for sexual battery on Tuesday by Circuit Court Judge Kosta Vlahos.

Ladner, a former Hancock County Election Commissioner, was arrested in January, 1994, and in May pled guilty to four counts of sexually abusing two girls, ages 8 and 10.

The abuse of the two girls is said to have occurred for 2 1/2 to 3 years and included intercourse, before one of the girls told a school teacher.

The district attorney's office had recommended 20 years and Ladner had been out of jail on a $100,000 bond awaiting sentencing.

Ladner had also been undergoing therapy. Ladner will be eligible for parole after serving 5 years of his sentence.

Colors raising set Saturday

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

A July Fourth special colors raising ceremony will be held Saturday, July 1, 8 a.m., at the Bay Flag Memorial at the Hancock County Walking Track in front of Hancock Medical Center, U.S. Highway 90, Bay St. Louis.

The color guards of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139 and the Theodore S. Price Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3253 will join to present the colors ceremony.

This will be the first special holiday weekend colors raising ceremony to be sponsored by the Legion and VFW.

The first special colors service will be conducted by Gene Schloegel, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3253 and Billy Moran, commander and Clayton Thompson, commander-elect of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139.

The 15x25 ft. American flag to be used for the colors ceremony was recently purchased by the City of Bay St. Louis and was unveiled at the Flag Day program June 10.

VFW and Legion Auxiliary

Units will participate in the ceremony.

The public is invited and urged to attend.

Schloegel said, "Plans are for the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars to hold colors ceremonies for all national holiday weekend celebrations at the memorial."

Unique lodge opens in Bay St. Louis

Opens without fanfare

By MARY G. SEILEY

A 128-room lodge opened in Bay St. Louis without fanfare this month — but the proprietor has already seen his first full house of guests.

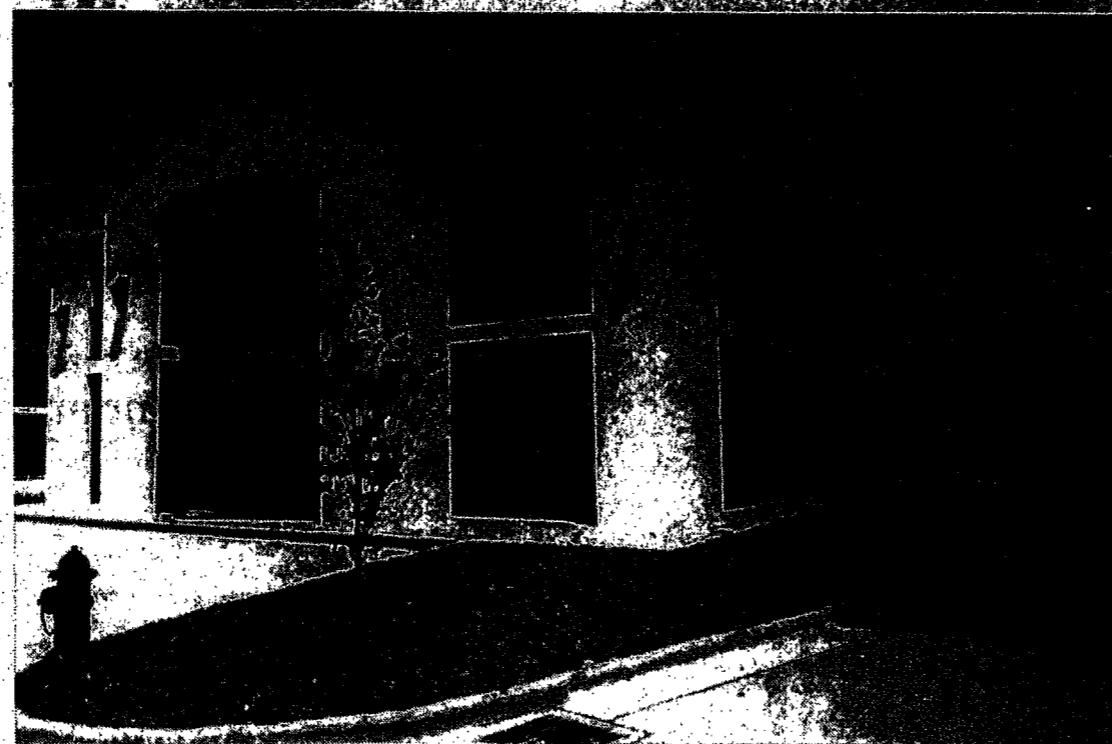

The Bay House Inn on Highway 90, a unique facility in this area, opened its doors when construction was completed, without the customary ribbon-cutting splash that new commercial establishments sponsor.

That rite may be performed later, says proprietor Terry Anthony. But for now, Anthony is concentrating on establishing the inn's reputation as a long-stay accommodation.

Its market, he said, is not the overnight tourist trade, although such guests are welcome. Rather, the inn was designed to accommodate patrons who need lodging for weeks, or several months at a time.

It boils down to a short-term apartment arrangement.

Bay House Inn features kitchenettes in every room, fully furnished with refrigerators, stoves, kitchen gadgets, plates, glasses and utensils. Need a can opener? It's in the drawer.

In addition to a double bed, some rooms feature a sofa that can be converted into a double bed. Others have two double beds and no sofa.

There's a laundromat on the premises, and soon there'll be a small convenience store inside the inn's office.

It's designed, said Anthony, for the business person who needs a temporary apartment but doesn't want the hassle — or expense — of having utilities installed and renting furnishings.

"Here, all they have to have is a toothbrush," he said. Maid service is available. All for $130 per week, single occupancy; $181 double occupancy.

Anthony and his Atlanta-based business associates have developed and operated nine other such facilities over the years, although this is their first venture in Mississippi. In Atlanta, the facilities have an average stay of 6.5 months, he said.

Word on the inn's long-term nature has begun to circulate, he said, and calls are coming in from some New Orleans firms who have personnel that need several weeks' lodging.

Last Monday, he had no long-term guests, but a week later he had 17. The inn, he said, was filled to capacity over the weekend, with overnight guests.

FCC reduces radio fee

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has adopted a new regulatory fee schedule that will reduce the $115 fee now being assessed on VHF marine radios to $75, according to BOAT/U.S. (Boat Owners Association of The United States). The reduced fee is effective Sept. 18.

At the direction of Congress, the FCC had sharply increased the fee from $35 to $115 over the past two years, to recoup the overhead costs of the agency's regulatory activities, cover the cost of processing a one-page license application and issue a call sign.

Since the $115 fee is nearly the cost of a marine radio, many boaters told BOAT/U.S. they would do without a radio rather than pay the exorbitant fee.

"Reducing the fee to $75 is a small step in the right direction," said BOAT/U.S. Government Affairs director Michael Scialla. "This is still a substantial amount to pay for a device which recreational boaters use primarily to call for help, listen to weather forecasts or hear another's call for assistance. For the safety of those going out to sea, Congress should simply get rid of the fee," he said.

A bill to eliminate the VHF marine radio license fee, H.R. 963 has been introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives by Rep. Jack Fields of Texas; chairman of the House Telecommunications Subcommittee and Rep. Bart Stupak of Michigan. BOAT/U.S. is urging boat owners to contact their representatives in Congress to ask them to support the bill.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

We at The Echo were sad about the unexpected death of L.H. Ott last week.

Harry, as he was known at The Echo, was an independent contractor delivering the newstands and vending machines in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Pass Christian and Long Beach since 1968.

We all wish his wife Elizabeth, sons Ralph Ott, James Ott, Keith Ott and daughter Karen Bourgeois, along with his brother, sister and five grandchildren, the best in the years ahead.

We at The Echo will miss and remember Harry for many years to come. Also in talking to many of our vendors, Harry will be missed by them, too.

So long, good friend.

As some of you may know, Charles Thomas owner of Fahey Drug Store has been under the weather for several weeks now.

Charles and his wife Jesse are good friends of Jane, and we wish Charles a speedy recovery.

On Tuesday I received a telephone call from a customer of the drug store reporting there is a large get-well card at the drug store in case anyone would like to sign it. It will be taken to Charles.

Fahey Drug Store is really a "fixture" in our community, as I can remember it all of my life. I, along with many others, wish Charles the best, and hope we will all be visiting with him at his drug store in the near future.

So if you would like to sign a get-well card for Charles, drop by the drug store. I know he will really appreciate your concern.

The long, long Fourth of July weekend is upon us and many things are happening starting on Friday.

The annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo starts at 10:01 a.m. Friday through 4 p.m. July 4th when the scales close.

The fishing rodeo, billed as the world's largest, has freshwater and saltwater categories, with headquarters located at the Gulfport Small Craft Harbor.

Fishermen need to pre-register, and registration is free.

Friday also is the start of the annual St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church Family Fair. Activities begin Friday with the annual fish fry. The St. Rose Fair continues through Sunday. The festivities will be held on the church's grounds, Necessaire Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

A colors ceremony will be conducted 8 a.m. Saturday at the Bay Flag Memorial at the Hancock County Walking Track in front of Hancock Medical Center.

The special event is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3253 and the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139.

It is hoped there will be a large turnout for the presentation of The Colors.

The annual Our Lady of the Gulf Crab Fest runs from Saturday July 1 through July 4.

The Crab Fest will feature live entertainment, rides, games, fireworks and a lot of other things.

The Crab Fest will be on the church's grounds on Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis.

The annual boat parade, sponsored by the Garden Isles Community Association, is set for noon on Saturday day. Formation will begin at 11:30 a.m. on Edwards Bayou.

The floods of last month will not hamper the plans of the residents of Jourdan River Shores. Their annual boat parade is set for 1 p.m. Saturday on the Jourdan River off Highway 603.

The annual Clermont Harbor parade is also set for Saturday beginning at 1 p.m.

The street parade in Clermont Harbor will form at Harold & Lillian's this year.

So as you can see, there are these and other activities set for this long weekend.

I hope everyone will have a safe and happy holiday weekend.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Break in, get hurt and sue —

Have you heard the one about the bank robber who sued for $2 million after he had suffered burns from dye hidden in the stolen money he had stuffed into his pants?

What about the mugger who won a $24,000 judgment against a cab driver who caught and held him for police?

Or the burglar who fell through the skylight of his victim's building who won a $250,000 judgment?

These are not lawyer jokes, but real lawsuits that have added impetus to groups such as the Mississippi Economic Council in calls to reform the civil justice system.

Although the bank robber's claim against the police department and a hospital was dismissed, and the cab driver won a retrial that enabled him to avoid paying any damages, both suits cost the defendants many thousands of dollars. That's one of the problems, according to MEC. Frivolous lawsuits are costly to defend. In all too many cases, companies agree to settle instead of putting up a defense that will cost big dollars.

And, after the burglar won his case, California rewrote its criminal code to prevent people from recovering money for accidental injuries suffered during the committing of certain crimes.

Mississippi has no such law. The 1996 Legislature should begin tort reform efforts by passing such a restriction on criminal activity.

House bill expands treatment for veterans

Mississippi Vietnam War veterans suffering from illnesses connected to Agent Orange and other herbicides will continue to receive free treatment under a bill to expand care.

The House Veterans' Affairs Committee, under the care of ranking member Sonny Montgomery of Mississippi, unanimously agreed to continue treatment to Vietnam veterans. If action had not been taken by the committee, the guarantee of free treatment would have expired June 30.

As a strong supporter of our nation's veterans, I am very pleased the bill also will allow treatment for conditions not on the VA list, but conceivably linked to Agent Orange. Since the war ended there has been evidence that some diseases, such as lung cancer, are linked to the herbicide.

Seeing that there is a great need to continue research on ailments that may be connected to Agent Orange, the bill also will require the National Academy of Sciences to con-tinute to conduct a report to update VA lists every two years. The next report is due in September.

In recent years, many Mississippi veterans have asked that Congress expand treatment. Veterans who may be suffering from ailments which aren't on the VA list, but credible scientific evidence supports a connection with Agent Orange, could seek treatment under the bill.

The committee also approved a measure that would extend free medical care to veterans suffering from conditions caused by exposure to ionizing radiation during weapons testing conducted after World War II.

I am very pleased Congress is committed to expanding care that is vital to our nation's veterans. Thousands of veterans were affected by Agent Orange and radiation weapons testing, and it is my hope that all will get the very best medical treatment possible. The legislation should pass the House by July 1.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Mississippi's base closure victories

Mississippi stood eye to eye with the Base Closure and Realignment Commission June 22 and 23, and when the dust had settled, the Commission had voted to keep open the Meridian Naval Air Station and Columbus Air Force Base.

Mississippi is one of the few states that has gone through three rounds of base closure proceedings over the past six years and successfully convinced the Base Closure Commission of the need to retain and in many cases expand our military facilities.

The Commission's 7-1 vote on June 23 to keep the Meridian Naval Air Station open was a national security decision critical to meeting the military's pilot training requirements.

I am very proud of the Commission for having the courage to reject the recommendation to close Meridian, a recommendation made strictly for budgetary reasons. The Commission instead based its decision on the security needs of the country.

For that we owe a debt of gratitude to Admiral Mike Boorda, Chief of U.S. Naval Operations, for his support. In his testimony before the Commission, he said unequivocally that Meridian was vital to the Navy's mission and that he could not do without the base. His testimony came in stark contrast to that of Navy Secretary John Dalton whose call to close Meridian appeared to be influenced by political considerations.

But the real credit for our Meridian victory goes to the Meridian community itself and all the people of Lauderdale County. They made the case for retaining Meridian NAS both during the Commission hearings in Birmingham and Atlanta and during the Commission's visits to the base, and they were the ones who hit the home run.

Making the case for Meridian NAS has been a long, six-year battle during which too much money was spent to keep open a military base everyone knew we needed in the first place. But to paraphrase Winston Churchill, there's nothing more exhilarating than being shot at three times without effect.

The good news we received on Columbus Air Force Base was expected but still a welcome confidence boost. Columbus had been added to the closure list late in the game for comparison purposes to allow the Commission to better evaluate the Pentagon's recommendation to close Reese Air Force Base. Columbus is the top-ranked pilot training base in the Air Force today, and we knew that if decisions were made on the merits, we would win that comparison hands down. On June 22, we did.

Columbus AFB's inclusion on the closure list cost the Columbus community a lot of effort, work and money, but again, it was the unstoppable support and work on the part of the residents of Lowndes County that ensured the victory.

With the end of this round of base closures, I think it is time to say enough is enough. I have put my colleagues in the Senate on notice that a fourth round of closures will take place over my dead body.

We are not saving money as the myth of base closure rhetoric had promised. To date we have spent more to close bases than we have saved. The reality of base closure has been economic dislocation, regional recession, and higher unemployment. In some cases, the process has just given away real estate — military facilities long ago financed with our tax dollars.

Millions have been spent both by states and communities like Columbus and Meridian to defend facilities which should never have been on base closure lists to begin with.

Enough is enough. We need to stop and catch our breath and make certain we are making decisions that are in the best interests of our national security.

Senator Lott welcomes any questions and/or comments about this column. Please write to: Senator Trent Lott, 487 Russell Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 (Attention: Press Office).

RECEPTION

A celebration reception to honor "Our Heritage" featuring internationally known artist Bob Songy's multi-media tribute to the Americas from early Inca to present-day sport fishermen of the Gulf of Mexico. Environmental slates, that have been donated to the four million acre Barataria Terrebonne National Estuary, are "Bounty," "Sidewalkers," "Returning," and a brand new work to be introduced, "Kingfisher." These draw attention to the pristine area, so it will be named a national treasure.

Songy invites all to come to the Diamondhead Yacht Club Sunday, July 2 from 2-5 p.m. and share his love of the earth, sky and water and all the beings they contain.

ANNOUNCEMENT
The PEO Chapter Q of Diamondhead will meet Wednesday, July 5 at 3:30 p.m. at the home of Mary Hoppert. Topic of the program will be "Hurricane Precautions," presented by Cathy McFaul and Bertha Morris. For information, contact Joann Powell at 255-2548.

THOUGHTS TO SHARE
True Freedom — Freedom for a country, for a world, is something that must first begin within the hearts of individuals, for there is a kind of personal freedom that comes with the realization that everyone is different, and each of us is unique and special in our own right.

If we can be secure in these differences, if we can learn to embrace the diversity and richness of experience which each of us has to offer, then we can begin to be free to accept ourselves and others as we are.

Have a wonderful, fun-filled, safe and happy 4th of July holiday, and don't forget to fly your flag.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

As I write these lines, I find myself musing over the many, many fun-filled fourths of July celebrations which I've enjoyed through the years with family and friends, and of the many, many delicious meals which we've all shared.

The men of the family, my sons and grandsons, are the outdoor chefs and do a top job of it, I must say. Some of our gatherings have been small, others huge, but all enjoyable.

By the way, the best place for icing the beer (especially for a larger group) is the washing machine; and you know how well beer and barbecue go together. This method is, of course, good for soft drinks as well.

Just heave in a goodly chunk or more of ice, add the cans of beer or whatever, and relax. And, when it's all over and the ice has melted, turn on the machine and drain the water off. Don't do as I once did, and leave a can lurking there, and when you start the wash cycle next day or so — what a noise!

I still recall the perplexed expression on one youngster's face when, in answer to his question, "Where's the beer?" I answered, "In the washing machine; help yourself" — but all agreed that it was a bright idea and so much less messy than a tub of beer cans on ice.

And, for a little something to serve while awaiting the main event, try brochettes, as the French call these morsels, also known as shish-kebab or just plain kebabs, or as one of my grandsons called them when he was quite young, "Something on a Stick" on the fire.

It's the old, old way shepherds in the fields long ago cooked meat on skewers over an open fire, and just as delicious today as it was back then. I have used chunks of beef steak (or even chuck steak) or lamb or pork or chicken. I've also used fish, and sometimes vegetables alone, all quite good and good at taking the edge of hunger while those tantalizing smells of the barbecue tease the appetite. So, here's:

BROCHETTES
It's ever so easy. String meat or chicken chunks or cubes on a skewer, alternating with chunks of onion, potato, tomato, whatever else suits your fancy. First, of course, you marinate your "whatever." A good marinade is:

MARINADE
1 cup red wine
3 or 4 Tbsp. vinegar, preferably wine vinegar
1/2 cup olive oil
Crushed garlic clove
Pinch of oregano
Bay leaf

Sliced onion
Dashes of black pepper, hot pepper sauce

After marinating for a few hours, drain marinade from meat and skewer the chunks alternately with potato chunks, etc. as above, grill for 10 or 12 minutes or until done — and devour while waiting for the main course! Increase quantities as needed, of course.

Voter registration deadline

Mississippians of voting age must register by Saturday noon, July 8, in order to be eligible to vote in the Aug. 8 state primary election, the Secretary of State's office reported.

"Motor voter" makes this registration deadline particularly important, said Robert M. Walker, Assistant Secretary of State. "Because those individuals who registered at government offices are only eligible to vote in federal elections, they must register again with their county circuit clerk for this year's state elections," he said.

Seventeen year-olds who will be 18 at the time of the general election are eligible to vote in primary elections. Eligible voters can also register through their municipal clerks or mail-in forms.

Primary runoff elections, if necessary, are scheduled for Aug. 29. The general election is Nov. 7.

Voters are instructed to contact their county circuit clerk with questions.

Hancock's Work-Based Learning Program receives rave reviews

As one of the eight sites in Mississippi to offer Work-Based Learning, the Hancock County School District has received welcome support from the business community. Currently eight students are hired as part-time employees with local business participants, including Coast Electric Power Association, Charlie Henderson Ford, Southern Building Enterprise Inc., Bay Tech Associates and Alcan Cable.

Presently there are 10 vocational/technical programs offered at the Hancock County Vocational Technical Center. The programs are agriscience, auto mechanics, business technology, building trades, child care, diversified technology, drafting, health occupations, metal trades and welding.

According to Pierre Langvin, plant manager for Alcan Cable in Bay St. Louis, "It provides a great opportunity for the juniors and seniors enrolled to learn first hand about the work place and its requirements.

"But mainly the students learn about themselves, their skills, abilities and how to behave in the work environment. It gives us an opportunity to support the educational process by providing guidance and coaching to the student trainee, and who knows, they may end up getting a regular position with us or any other employer supporting this program. This is a good example of industry and the school system investing together in the future of our children."

The Work-Based Learning Program is a very simple process which enables students to earn while they learn. The business participant agrees to employ one or more students at the prevailing state minimum wage or higher. The student attends vocational-technical classes in the morning and is employed in a career-related job in the afternoon.

The employer agrees to provide site-based training under tutelage of a mentor or supervisor. Combining academic study with work experience will give students every opportunity to become useful and productive citizens of society as well as rewarding careers.

Brad Ladner, a senior enrolled in auto mechanics, works 18 hours a week at Charlie Henderson Ford. Carlos Carter, Henderson Ford service manager said, "Jerry Winstead, our shop foreman, lines Brad up with what needs to be done each day. If he has any questions or needs any help, he goes to Jerry or comes to me. Brad is working out very well for us. He is a hard-working, well-mannered young man. We haven't had the first problem and don't anticipate any."

Christina Adams, Jill Griffith and Jason Valentine, seniors enrolled in business technology, are employed at Coast Electric Power Association in the afternoon. George Sullivan, manager of administrative services said, "These kids began working with us at the perfect time. We had just completed the installation of a new computer system, which involved weeks of staff training sessions; therefore, there were quite a few odd jobs to catch up on. The first couple of weeks they worked downstairs with Marilyn Sefton, our director of human resources.

They have been working with Doris Wyatt, our general office supervisor, this week. The students are working out very well. We are happy to have them with us."

Wyatt said, "I try to keep the girls together, they work great as a team. The students are treated the same as any other employee. If a problem of some sort were to come up, we would discuss it. But, I certainly don't expect any problems. I have received nothing but positive feedback from the other employee's concerning their work ethics and behavior. We are happy to participate in this problem."

Mike Lander, HHS Work-Based Learning coordinator, sums it up this way. "Schools, communities and industries/businesses must work together in order to prepare children for the many challenges which inevitably lie ahead. By exposing them to the business world of today, we will provide a greater awareness of each individual's role in the world of work."

The future of our work force and our communities is at stake. Please join those business/industries who already are a part of this team. Simply pick up the phone and dial the WBL coordinator at 466-0778.

Board approves budget Alexander's contract

Pearl River Community College Board of Trustees approved a record $30.4 million budget and President Ted Alexander's contract through June 30, 1998, during the regular June meeting.

Alexander, PRCC president since 1986, said he was elected over the board's unanimous decision to extend his contract. Alexander had received a two-year extension last year, which was set to kick in July 1.

"It is gratifying to receive your support," Alexander told the board. "Your confidence in our work is sincerely appreciated. It's going to be a tremendously busy and exciting time here at Pearl River College during the next three years."

An evaluation committee made up of six of the 16 board members unanimously recommended Alexander's extension. The 12 board members present also voted to give the president the same pay increase as afforded all college employees.

The board also approved Alexander's nomination for the American Community College Trustees Marie Y. Martin Chief Executive Officer Award, a national award sponsored by the ACCCT.

In other business, the PRCC board adopted a yearly budget which topped the $30 million mark for the first time in the school's history.

PRCC business manager Ron Holmes reviewed a summary of the projected budget for the fiscal year 1995-96. All board members received a more detailed budget analysis last week in the mail.

Holmes explained that the $30,411,536 budget forecast included the Education and General Fund, current Restricted Fund, and the Plant Fund. Last year's record budget was $24.6 million.

Holmes is predicting a $1.5 million increase in the total Educational and General Fund. This fund is made up of income from county, state, federal sources and outside sales and services. The majority of the increase is $1.3 million from the state.

There is a $1.5 million increase in the Current Unrestricted Fund with $1.3 million of that figure coming from increased state support. County support is expected to increase by $45,000 and federal support by $90,000.

Last year the Current Unrestricted Fund had $12.4 million, next year that number should move to around $13.9 million. Holmes projects $9.8 million of this fund will go toward salaries and fringe benefits.

The Grants Fund, within the overall Current Unrestricted Fund, has the most dramatic increase, as the college is expecting to receive $4.6 million in grant revenue during the coming year. That is compared to $1.4 million received last year from grants.

In the overall Plant Fund, the college is expecting to receive almost $6 million in revenue from number of state bonds, private contributions, and specified additional local county support.

New construction projects in line include a $3.6 million Nursing and Wellness Center, and renovation of the Administration Building, old Student Center, Vocational Building, Moody Hall, Technology Center, and an addition to the Allied Health Center in Hattiesburg.

In other action, the PRCC Board:

Approved personnel recommendations and resignations.

Approved the bid on renovation of the Technology Center.

Approved monthly bids and progress payments.

Heard a report from Doug Macney, chairman of the PRCC Development Foundation. Macney of Picayune, explained that the foundation has raised $533,521 this past year. He said Ott Erekman of Hattiesburg, will become chair of the foundation in July.

Heard a report on grants and external funding. Dr. Beth Burchell, director of the Grants and Research Department, said the school had been awarded $510,648 through six different grants just during the month of May. Three other grants have been submitted and eight others are in process.

Airport

...we want to be maintaining. At this point, we are watching our expenses real close, but we will maintain our quality.

The airport has retained its four full-time firemen. They are also pitching in with maintenance duties, cutting of grass, landscaping, and other activities, Stovall said.

Also, some landscaping projects and the striping of the General Aviation ramp have been put aside, he said.

Perhaps equally as damaging as the loss revenue, is that the closing of Express One virtually cripples the airport's chances of achieving full FAA certification. Before the carrier's demise, Stovall had said the airport could receive the prestigious status within a year.

Full certification opens up a cache of federal funding, including monies for a new terminal, Stovall said. There were hopes that a new terminal would become a reality in the next couple of years.

Now, all plans are on hold.

"(The shutdown) effects us getting full certification," Stovall said. "But we will continue to work toward it."

"The FAA has said they will help us anyway they can."

Magic officials have said they are considering terminating their air program permanently. One charter did arrive from Buffalo, NY, Tuesday, but such flights will be limited at least through the summer, casino officials said.

In the meantime, Stovall said he will soon be "hitting the road" in an effort to attract new business to Stennis. He said his primary focus will be on air cargo companies.

In another move, Stovall announced the airport has contracted with Phillips Aviation, Stennis' lone Fixed Base Operator, to provide weather service to incoming planes. He said the contract will take effect when "charter flights begin again."

Stennis will pay Phillips $1,400 per month to provide free weather service to all incoming flights, including "private" pilots.

The change comes as a result of concerns Express One officials previously expressed, Stovall said.

Currently, Stormforce, Inc., a local aviation weather company located at Stennis, has been providing weather information to Express One. Also, the company is contracted with Air Nevada for weather services.

Stormforce charges both the charter service and the airport for its weather service, a service Stovall said "99 percent of all airports" provide at no charge.

He said the Port and Harbor Commission, the governing body of Stennis, wants to turn the facility into a "full service airport." Express One told us they wanted free weather."

He said the charges paid to Phillips will be made up in landing fees.

"This will make us more competitive," Stovall said.

Stormforce owner Dave Reuscher said the move may "put me out of business," a claim Stovall disputes.

Stovall countered that the contract with Phillips "won't hurt (Reuscher) much."

"He will be conducting weather for Air Nevada," Stovall said.

Reuscher said Tuesday he "could not comment on anything going out here."

Reuscher is also Air Nevada's Director of Charter Operations for Mississippi. Air Nevada flies charters into Gulfport/Biloxi Regional Airport and other Mississippi destinations.

Stovall said the airport has ordered the weather equipment at a cost of $4,200 from Interstate Weather Corp. He said it should be delivered within the next couple of weeks.

He said once fully operational, weather will be provided from 8 a.m.-8 p.m. on a daily basis and whenever needed for the arrival of charter flights.

Airport personnel will also be trained on the equipment, Stovall said.

COMMUNITY

ROTC 'Flying Tigers' '94-'95 year in review

The MS-934th Air Force Junior ROTC Group of Bay High School completed an eventful and rewarding second year of operations which saw both an increase in cadet participants and an expansion of activities. An early look toward the 1995-96 academic year promises more of the same with current cadet enrollment figures topping 120 students.

There never seemed to be a dull moment for Bay High's cadets. Constantly planning, practicing, competing or providing service projects to the community, active members of the Bay High cadet corps can be proud of their achievements.

Every year outstanding cadet performers are recognized for their overall contributions to the cadet corps.

Typically these students are the ones who have extended themselves academically and by extensive involvement in corps, school and community efforts.

This year, due to the number of awards presented, a separate AFJROTC ceremony, attended by local dignitaries and parents, was held in the Bay High School auditorium. Mayor John Mason of Waveland and School District Superintendent Paul Tisdale assisted with the presentations. The following cadets received annual AFJROTC awards which were accompanied by ribbons to wear while in uniform:

Distinguished Cadet (awarded to an outstanding AS-II cadet, who has also received the AFJROTC Achievement, Leadership, Superior Performance, Academic, and CoCurricular Leadership ribbons) Melissa Doty.

Outstanding Cadet (Top AS-I, AS-II, AS-III cadets) AS-I: Dayna Castaneda; AS-II: Jason Osborne; AS-III: Angie Necaise.

AFJROTC Leadership (Top 5% of cadets in leadership positions) Dayna Castaneda, Melissa Doty, Angie Necaise, Jason Osborne, Jeremy Turcotte, Robin Williams.

AFJROTC Achievement (significant achievement, top 5% of cadet corps) Frederick Bell, Melissa Doty, Vanessa McGill, Angie Necaise, Chris Sones.

AFJROTC Superior Performance (outstanding AFJROTC performance, top 10% of cadet corps) James Arnold, Karen Burns, Dayna Castaneda, April Darenburg, Senior cadets honored at the Bay High School Senior Awards Day included: Vanessa McGill, Marcel Ockman, Melissa Doty, Robin Williams, Marc Magelssen, Jason Osborne, La'Sha Parker, Jeremiah Singletary, and Angie Necaise.

In addition to cadets receiving awards, the following Bay High students were recognized as recipients of U.S. Air Force ROTC Scholarships: Kelly Murray and Jennifer Von Antz.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The big news this week is the speckled trout have finally moved into the surf and the bays. They have moved in with a bang. They are everywhere. Big ole good uns and good ole big uns.

Before the Turtle gets too excited, let me tell y'all what they are feeding on. The three favorite foods of trout right now are: 1. live shrimp; 2. live shrimp; 3. live shrimp. In case y'all didn't get the message, the trout are hitting on live shrimp.

Now that the headlines are out of the way, let's talk about trout.

The best time to fish for speckled trout in the surf is right at first light in the morning until about 30 minutes after sunrise. The reason for this is the trout seem to spend the night time hours in spawning activity, so when daylight lightens up the water enough that the trout can see food they are big-time hungry.

The number one, most plentiful fish food in the water right now is shrimp. The Turtle is not sure, but he thinks that is why the trout are feeding on live shrimp.

Anyway, you might want to use a number 5/0 bronze carlisle hook and hook your live shrimp between the two dark spots on the head of the shrimp. Hooking the shrimp through the head allows the shrimp enough freedom that it can swim and jump around in the water which really gets the attention of a hungry fish.

On a side note, it really gets the juices of a fisherman flowing when the shrimp start bouncing out of the water next to your cork. When this happens you tense in anticipation of the crash of a surface strike, knowing that a monster trout must be after your shrimp to make it become acrobatic.

What has happened to make the speckled trout suddenly show up in big numbers all along the surf? The big answer is 18 ppt salt content in the waters of the Sound. Because all the spring rain I think the salt content of the Sound has been somewhere in the neighborhood of minus 18 ppt. An additional problem has been the big-time muddy condition of the waters in the Sound.

Well fishin' buddies, all that stuff has gone east with the geese for the summer. The Sound waters are now clean and clear. The big fisherman upstairs must have used his entire salt shaker, because the salt content is now getting close to the content of seawater.

To get an idea of how many fishermen were in the surf this past weekend I drove from Jubilee Casino to the public pier in Long Beach. I counted 67 fishermen out in the water or on their way back to their vehicles from the water.

Everyone appeared to have some fish on their stringers. Unfortunately, if the new rule mandating only 14 inch, or larger, trout goes into effect, very few surf fishermen will have any legal fish to take home.

I interviewed a few of the surf fishermen as they came out of the water. The comment most of them made was, as I said earlier, the best bait is live shrimp.

A few tips on using live bait that I did not mention earlier: It is best fished about 18 inches under a cork. The 18-inch depth keeps the bait off the bottom and lessens the frequency of hardhead catfish chomping on your 12-cent apiece shrimp.

Next tip is to use a long shank hook like the 5/0 carlisle. By using a long shank hook you can grab the shank of the hook and shake off an undersized trout without touching the trout. This should help the survivability of the smaller trout you might catch.

Next item on the agenda this week is, you just gotta make plans to get involved in the Mississippi Deep Sea Rodeo. This rodeo is touted as the largest rodeo in the world.

Local disabled vet participates in wheelchair games

Michael Murzi, a disabled Navy veteran from Diamondhead, has participated in the 15th National Veterans Wheelchair Games (NVWG) in Atlanta.

The field of more than 500 athletes from 40 states, Puerto Rico and Great Britain makes this the largest wheelchair sports event in the United States.

All athletes are military veterans who use wheelchairs due to spinal-cord impairment, certain neurological conditions, orthopedic amputations or other disabilities.

Murzi, 52, is a paraplegic.

Murzi competed in air rifle and bowling.

"It feels great to participate with fellow veterans," said Murzi. "I love renewing old friendships and making new ones."

Athletes at the NVWG compete according to the physical

The headquarters are located in the Rice Pavilion in the Gulfport Small Craft Harbor. There will be stuff for the whole family to do, see, and eat at the rodeo headquarters.

The rodeo starts this weekend, so keep the weekend open to attend this gala event.

This week's wonderful wise words: The Turtle wishes everyone a happy and safe Fourth of July holiday.

Ride watercraft gently down stream

The nation's fleet of personal watercraft now numbers over 750,000 and BOAT/U.S. (Boat Owners' Association of the United States), the nation's largest organization of recreational boaters, is reminding personal watercraft operators that their vessels are subject to the same laws and nautical "rules of the road" as other boats.

"A personal watercraft is a boat and the operator is the skipper," said BOAT/U.S. Safety Director Jim Ellis. "The skipper of any boat must be familiar not only with federal, state and local laws and regulations governing use of their craft, but also with basic boat operating and safety procedures," he said.

Federal regulations require personal watercraft to be registered and have an identification number. Life jackets are required on board and should be worn. U.S. Coast Guard and state rules also require that a fire extinguisher be on board.

BOAT/U.S. also offers these tips for safe personal watercraft operation:

- Don't drink and boat. Alcohol significantly impairs your ability to operate a personal watercraft safely. Boating while intoxicated is not only dangerous, it's illegal.
- Keep a sharp lookout while underway. Most personal watercraft accidents are collisions with other boats or other personal watercraft.

• Most states have a minimum age requirement for personal watercraft operation. Don't lend your craft to an underage operator. Make sure all operators are familiar with your craft and aware of safe boating rules. As the boat owner, you could be legally responsible for their actions.

• Watch your speed, especially in congested areas and don't jump wakes.

• Each rider should wear sunglasses or goggles and footwear.

• Frequently inspect the throttle, switches, cables and steering and check the fuel lines for leaks.

For a free personal watercraft safety guide, call BOAT/U.S. at 1-800-274-4877.

Ladner halts Davis' win streak at Sun Coast

Mike Ladner knew he had his number three Late Model setup close to perfect when he timed in one hundredth of a second off his own track record.

K. I. Davis III has virtually owned this class in terms of wins, timed in alongside Ladner. Ladner has already won the only two features that Davis failed to capture this season.

As the green flag fell on the 15-car field, it was Ladner jumping to the lead. Davis fell in behind Ladner, but could do nothing to stop him from going flag to flag for the win.

Marlin Wild was on hand to drive the 81 car of Billy Joe Schonewitz, which he had originally set up for Schonewitz. He managed a third place finish behind Davis. The race was slowed as the four car and 71 car got together coming out of turn four leaving Marty Broadus with no place to go.

Broadus and heat winner Davin Bates both sustained major damage to their cars as they made contact with the front wall. Benny Spicer won one of the earlier heat races by holding off Wild and Randy Brownlee for the win. Bates held off Boogie Obiol for the other heat win.

Donald Parker and Bubba McQueen seem to have the number 99 controversy solved as Parker is now 199 and McQueen is 990. Regardless of the number, Parker still managed to time in on the pole alongside Timmy Moody for the pro stock feature.

McQueen lined up in the second row of the 13-car field.

Parker moved out front on the start where he went flag to flag for a relatively easy win. Moody held on to the second spot by holding off McQueen and heat winner Wallace Allen. Chet Morrison won one of the earlier heats.

In the Four Cylinder Modified Division Jamie Farve went flag to flag over last week's winner Marus Jacobs to add another feature win to his list. Nick Sellier finished third over his younger brother and heat winner Kalif Sellier. Kenny Allison took the top spot in the second heat.

Heat winner Lonnie Scarbrough outdistanced Rodney Bruce and Owen Kosbab to win the "A" Maine in the Street Stock Division. Leroy Thompson won his first feature race by leading the "B" maine to the checkers. Thompson held off Jerry Winstead and heat winner David Hough to post the win. Michael Barr also won one of the earlier heats.

A. J. Krohn claimed rookie honors over heat winner B. J. Barnes and Donald Davenport.

Linda Schonewitz moved from her third row starting position to the front in short order to lead the ladies Powder Puff race to the checkers. Sandy Stewart, winner of the last ladies event managed to work her way from the back of the 15-car field to a second place finish.

Next week will feature a two-night event for the Sun Coast Miss State Championship. There will be over $10,000 in prize money plus large trophies in all events.

Friday night will be qualifying and heat races, which will determine Saturdays feature lineup. You must run both nights to collect full purse. Top two qualifiers in each class will be locked in for Saturday features.

Saturday night will also feature The Winged Mini Sprint, "Kids" Championship bike races will be held on both nights. Trophies and checkered flags will be given. Races start at 8 both nights.

Commission defines 'legal deer'

The Mississippi Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks has stated a clear definition of what constitutes a legal buck. At its monthly meeting in Biloxi, the commission relied on a definition that has been used for years at deer camps to determine what a legal deer is. "If you can get a ring to hang from it, then it counts as a legal point according to the new law," said Dr. Sam Polles, Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks executive director. "It's just like the old practice they use at most deer camps. If a point will hold a ring, any ring, then we will count it as a legal point."

The definition was needed to help conservation officers enforce a new law that was passed by the 1995 Legislature and signed by Gov. Kirk Fordice. The law states that no bucks with less than four antler points will be legal during any deer season.

USM professor continues probing campus crime

A University of Southern Mississippi professor's second book on campus crime provides a detailed discussion and guide to dealing with safety issues that affect institutions of higher learning.

Dr. Michael Clay Smith, professor of criminal justice at USM, published Coping With Crime on Campus in 1987, a groundbreaking text that put campus crime under a microscope and effectively drew attention to better ways of dealing with a long-ignored subject.

His latest undertaking, Crime on Campus: Legal Issues and Campus Administration, written with Dr. Richard Fossey, associate professor of education law and policy at Louisiana State University, provides a clear understanding of the liability of the college or university for specific crimes, Smith said.

"Campus crime is a safety issue, a financial issue, and even a marketing issue — affecting decisions by students and their parents as to where, when and how higher education will be acquired," Smith said. "In addition, as the rate of crime increases, victim lawsuits become more commonplace — and yet campus legal responsibilities are often vague."

The American Council on Education asked Smith to consider updating his original text and published the book this month as part of its series on higher education. The book is written to assist university or college administrators, lawyers, students and parents in understanding how to reduce the risk of criminal activity on campus as well as provide a look at court rulings and legislation directly related to higher education. Suggestions, discussions of issues and checklists that can be used to evaluate current procedures and potential problems also are included.

University and college campuses are not immune to any crime and, because of their size and demography, in many ways provide perfect "laboratories for examining crime in America," Smith said.

"If you can identify strategies that work on college campuses, you may find strategies that work in the larger culture as well," he said.

The U.S. Congress passed the Students Right to Know Act and amended other laws, giving students greater access to information about crimes on campus — an issue Smith pushed in the original book.

Crime on Campus: Legal Issues and Campus Administration was published in May by the American Council on Education and The Oryx Press. The book retails for $34.95 and currently is available only from the publisher by writing The Oryx Press, 4041 North Central Ave. Suite 700, Phoenix, Ariz. 85012-3397.
